

Do you know if your best friend is at risk of heart disease?

Heart disease affects 25% of dogs over the age of 7. Signs of heart failure in your dog may include any of the following:

- Coughing
- Lack of energy / depression / not wanting to go for walks
- Poor appetite
- Laboured or fast breathing
- Fainting
- Loss of weight

Have you ticked two or more boxes?

If so please talk to your vet about heart failure during your next visit. You know your dog better than anyone else and your observations can be critical in helping your dog lead a happier, healthier and longer life.
